HOW TO GET YOUR FAMILY TO SUPPORT YOU AS A HOMESCHOOLER

Family can be your biggest cheerleader and supporter because they are close to home. They could also be your biggest obstacle.

They need to understand what you are doing or trying to do and why. You have spent time in this course learning and reading. Now, you need to translate what you have learned into something you understand and can support.

*Explain in simple terms what you are doing and why (the benefits to your child)- Being your child's educator is so important. Tell them how Waldorf educates their body, mind and spirit.

*Keep them well informed and updated.

*Be prepared to compromise and come to decisions together.

*It is a process; a lifestyle- take it a step at a time.

*Ask them for help- have them contribute a skill or "gift" they have to your schooling ex: your sister is an artist, or speaks a foreign language, musician, knits, etc..

*Be confident- this course should have given you a boost up! You don't have to have all the answers, but stand tall in your decisions and get support where you need it.
